» Rwanda: A look back at the 1994 genocide

by Eric Toussaint

Starting on 7 April 1994, in less than three months, nearly one million Rwandans – the exact figure has not yet been determined – were exterminated because they were (or supposed to be) Tutsis. Tens of thousands of moderate Hutus were also slaughtered. This was indeed a genocide, that is, the (...) [\[Read more\]](#)

» Brazil: 50 years after the overthrow of democratically elected president Joao Goulart, Washington's support to the coup must not be forgotten

by Eric Toussaint

Brazil: 50 years after the army staged a coup on 2 April 1964 and overthrew President Joao Goulart, there can be no doubt about the active support provided by the US government, the World Bank and the IMF. On 2 April 2014, a US NGO, the National Security Archive (NSA!) publicized an impressive (...) [\[Read more\]](#) » Argentina: Default and Beyond What Lessons for Europe?

by Alain Cibils

The current debt crises in several European countries warrant a close look at Argentina's substantial experience with debt crises, default and debt restructuring. Argentina's December 2001 default is particularly relevant to the current situation in the European periphery. We shall present an (...) [\[Read more\]](#)

» Spain's Marches for Dignity converge on Madrid

by Jérôme Duval

In Spain, despite the government's claims of growth and a revival in exports, there's no shortage of reasons for people to demonstrate. To pick one among others, according to a report by Cáritas, there are currently three million people who live on less than 307 Euros a month. That's twice as (...) [\[Read more\]](#)

A call to Patrick Honohan, the Governor of the Irish Central Bank to do the right thing

» Blog: Ireland's Financial Foe: the European Central Bank

by Nessa Ní Chasaide

Last week it emerged external link that the European Central Bank (ECB) is not happy with the restructuring of Ireland's most odious socialised banking debt – the debts of Anglo Irish Bank and Irish Nationwide Building Society. The debts of Anglo et al – about €30 billion – are worth nearly half (...) [\[Read more\]](#)

» Saudi 'gift' violates pak law

by Abdul Khaliq

Foreign aid is not an odd thing, if there are no strings attached. Pakistan has been receiving tied and untied foreign aid; loans, and grants from various donors ever since its birth. However, the recent massive cash grant of $1.5 billion by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is unprecedented by (...) [\[Read more\]](#)

Debt and austerity

» What's the alternative ? : Experts from across the world gather to discuss solutions to the debt crisis

by Eurodad

As the lion's share of the world's nations suffer from austerity policies, politicians, financial experts and civil society activists came together this month for a three-day international conference to discuss alternative ways of tackling the debt crisis. The event – which took place in Brussels (...) [\[Read more\]](#)
