Trade unions voice their concerns about the Joint Africa-EU Strategy

The Joint Africa-EU Task Force met in Brussels on 8-9 March 2012. In preparation to the meeting ITUC and ETUC highlighted the concerns of trade unions from both continents in a letter to the EU Commissioner on Development, Andris Piebalgs. In respect to the Joint Africa-EU Strategy (JAES) trade unions stress the importance of the Decent Work Agenda, which is recognized in other EC's development documents, in particular the Agenda for Change, but still missing in the priorities of JAES. Other concerns include the need for EU's policy coherence, more synergies between the existing partnerships as well as a rights-based

EU's aid to Haiti – no progress without Decent Work

The lack of recognition of the international labour standards and the right to social protection is one of the reasons for the perpetuation of extreme poverty in Haiti. Despite continuous efforts of ITUC, ETUC and Haitian trade unions, EU's aid programmes for the country still make no mention of the Decent Work Agenda among their priorities or principles. In a letter to EU Development Commissioner, Andris Piebalgs, trade unions remind that without Decent Work principles at the core, the efforts for reconstruction and development of Haiti will not succeed. In their Roadmap, formulated in April 2010, trade unions present in detail their perspective on the necessary prerequisites for Haiti's reconstruction.

About us

The Trade Union Development Cooperation Network (TUDCN) is an initiative of the International Trade Union Confederation that

Colombian trade unions and human rights organisations meet in Bogotá to unveil action against impunity

Since the 1950s, defending human rights in Colombia via a trade union organisation has been an extremely risky activity. Even more shocking is the fact that the majority of crimes and other attacks – both physical and mental – against trade unions and trade unionists and their families remain undocumented and as such have never gone to court or been punished. The work of Colombian trade unionists is fraught with danger and their activities are generally deemed so worthless that decent work in the field is extremely hard to come by.

BetterAid Updates: What's Next After Busan?

The Fourth High Level Forum on Aid Effectiveness was one of the high points of the long advocacy of civil society to promote development effectiveness. CSOs participated in the negotiations of the Busan Outcome Document, co-organized official thematic sessions, prepared mini-debates in the Knowledge and Innovation Space, and lobbied in the corridors of the Bexco Convention Center. Now, instead of pausing for a break, civil society celebrated their success in the HLF-4 by sustaining the momentum gained in Busan. Read more about some of the key undertakings of civil society during the first half of 2012.
