Social protection at the heart of the development agenda

The High Level Event that ITUC co-hosted together with the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs at the European Development Days on placing social protection at the heart of the development agenda attracted not only eminent speakers, but also a full room of development professionals interested in the topic. ITUC Secretary General Sharan Burrow, European Commissioner Andris Piebalgs and French Minister for Development Pascal Canfin were only some of the distinguished speakers who, stressed the importance of social protection as a crucial element of development policy and practice.

Trade union response to the EC Communication on CSOs in development

In response to the recent European Commission's Communication 'The roots of democracy and sustainable development: Europe's engagement with Civil Society in external relations' trade unions welcome the document and its recognition of the role of the civil society with the particular mention of social partners and social dialogue as well as the Commission's commitment to supporting regional and global networks and ensuring timely and inclusive policy dialogues. Trade unions welcome also the recognition of the role of Development Education as a means of strengthening public accountability of the EU external action.

Trade unions react to the EC Communication on social protection in development

ITUC and ETUC warmly welcomed the new EC Communication "Social Protection in European Union Development Cooperation" and its evolved understanding of social protection, with references to the relevant ILO recommendations. Trade unions appreciate also the recognition of the role of social partners in the elaboration and implementation of social protections schemes. Concerns remain however around

TUCA's Training School Network and virtual courses

Through the Training School Network, the TUCA is launching a process to articulate and coordinate trade union training on continental level. The characteristics of the network are to be a "virtual classroom" for learning, an educational "resource centre" and a "forum for interaction". The objective is to train leaders and facilitators to develop alternative thinking, to facilitate the development of proposals to strengthen the trade union movement so that it can contribute to the building of a new society based on sustainability and democracy with decent work as the driving force of this new development model.

Haïti - successful mobilisation on October 5th.

Following the call for action launched by the ITUC and TUCA on the occasion of the Global Day of Action for Decent Work, Haitian trade unions took the streets of Port au Prince to insist on genuine decent work policies. More than 2000 people demonstrated and demanded the government to respond to worker's urgent demands, as defined in the trade union roadmap. A video highlights the main moments of that day.
