Call for contributions

Global South

The Sephis e-magazine

General Issues

In the previous year, the future of the Global South Sephis e-magazine was uncertain. However, we are happy to inform our readers that the e-magazine will run for the next two years, at least.

For forthcoming general issues of the e-magazine we are inviting essays on concerns related to the Global South. We would particularly welcome contributions which focus on the history of development in South-South contexts. Contributions may take the form of academic papers, research articles, book reviews, and conference reports.

Contributors are requested to note that this is a refereed journal and that the minimum time for publication subsequent to submission is six months, depending on the waiting list.

The word limit for articles is 5000; for book reviews and conference reports the prescribed length is 1000 words.

Kindly note that we will be reading contributions on a rolling basis and, therefore, there is no deadline for submissions.
