

WORLD FINANCIAL CRISIS

Over the last few months, the world financial crisis has gone from bad to worse. What this crisis has taught us is that the financial markets are out of control and that they cannot regulate themselves. National governments have had to step in with massive aid injections of public money in order to cover the mismanagement of private financial institutions. Conny Reuter, Secretary General of SOLIDAR asks, "if governments can find these huge sums of money to bail out our private financial institutions, should they not also take on their responsibility to find the money to combat poverty, to achieve the Millenium Goals and provide better social and public services?"

EUROPE SHOULD LOOK AT ITS HISTORY: SOCIAL PROTECTION CAN SAVE PEOPLE FROM POVERTY!

A two day expert's meeting on 'How to strengthen social protection coverage in the context of the European Union Agenda on decent work and promoting employment in the informal economy' was organised by the International Labour Organisation (ILO) in Brussels this week. The meeting reinforced the case for a Global Social Floor demonstrating that today there is enough evidence available so that 'social security provision realises the basic rights to social security, that it is effective in reducing poverty, delivers tangible social and economic benefits to the countries implementing it, and is affordable'. Europe's history can tell us more about that as most countries developed their social security systems when they were poor. Read more.

LET'S MAKE PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST

SOLIDAR was invited as the only NGO to speak at the 'Let's Make Peace in the Middle East' conference, held in Venice from 25-27 September. Conny Reuter, Secretary General of SOLIDAR, put forward that this conference came at a timely moment just as the dramatic situation in the region shows the need for new approaches and action. For SOLIDAR it also comes after a mission to Israel and Palestine at the end of August (read SOLIDAR's diary of the trip 1|2|3).

In his contribution, Conny highlighted the fact that if civil society organisations are not involved, then it will be impossible for a real peace process to be determined in an international conference. Conny stated that "SOLIDAR defends the rights approach, puts the social dimension at the heart of our support and wants to work with both sides. This is the time for dialogue contributing to a better mutual understanding and a new culture of peace."

OPERATIONALISING HUMAN RIGHTS AT WORK IN THE WTO

SOLIDAR attended a two day event on "Operationalising Human Rights at Work in the WTO" hosted by the European Trade Union Confederation. The conference was held to coincide with research carried out by Syndex, which looked into possible ways to include mainly Core Labour Standards into WTO processes. The study explores a number of options including legal, economic, political and institutional channels. As an institution, WTO rules are just one of a number of rights and obligations bestowed upon states and in theory should not contradict human and labour standards as set by UN bodies, in this case particularly the ILO.

In practice however, as speakers from the ILO highlighted, 147 member organisations of the WTO are also party to the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Rights at Work, which should bestow upon them the responsibility to ensure that their trade policies are coherent with these treaties, in the hierarchy of rules, trade and investment considerations often take precedents over labour considerations. However, panelists pointed to the fact that for the first time ever, in the 2008 Declaration on Social Justice for a Fair Globalisation, member states agreed that "the violation of fundamental principles and rights at work cannot be invoked or otherwise used as a legitimate comparative advantage" whereas beforehand the reverse was considered to be the case. SOCIAL AFFAIRS

CURRENT POLICY PROCESS ON SOCIAL SERVICES

On 18 September, eight European networks of social service providers sent a letter to DG Employment, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities and the Chairperson of the Social Protection Committee expressing some key concerns regarding the current European-level policy process on social services of general interest (SSGI).

In this letter Caritas Europa, CEDAG, EASPD, EPR, Eurodiaconia, FEANTSA, SOLIDAR and Workability Europe state that some crucial issues on policy frameworks and objectives are not clear. The networks observe a continuous shifting away from the political character of the debate on social services of general interest towards a debate about 'pure' legal and technical issues, which does not adequately take into account the specific characteristics of SSGI and their users. PES GROUP RESOLUTION ON SOCIAL PACKAGE

On 25 September the European Parliament debated the Social Package adopted by the European Commission at the beginning of July. The Socialist Group in the European Parliament's spokesperson for social and employment affairs, Stephen Hughes MEP, said: "There is now a clear political breach in this parliament over social Europe. This Parliament remained silent in a face of a woeful social package from the European Commission." He declared that there is an urgent need to implement policies, at European and national levels, to protect a decent standard of living for all and a decent minimum wage for the poor and socially excluded.

The final version of the own-initiative report "Promoting social inclusion and combating poverty, including child poverty, in the European Union" was voted on by the European Parliament's Employment and Social Affairs Committee. The final vote in the plenary will take place on 9 October, after its presentation to the Commission and the plenary on 8 October. SOLIDAR contributed to the draft report in discussing the main lines of the document in a meeting with rapporteur Gabi Zimmer (GUE/NGL, Germany), which built on SOLIDAR's reply to the consultation on active inclusion.
