

On Monday heads of state and government celebrated the 20th anniversary of the fall of the Berlin Wall. The political changes that we have seen are all very welcome, but walls still exist preventing people from accessing more democracy, freedom, justice, peace and prosperity, in particular when it comes to the social effects of the crisis in some of the EU New Member States like Latvia, Lithuania and Hungary. The crisis has shown that focusing only on economic growth and leaving the regulation to the financial market is simply not sufficient. Freedom is not only a question of constitutional liberties and rights, it is about generating and distributing wealth for everyone in our societies, it is about decent work and decent life for all!

The citizens in Central and Eastern Europe achieved political changes, and now we have to make sure that the future of Europe is based on policies which put the people and planet first. Mr. Barroso, tear down the wall of poverty and social exclusion by contributing to a Europe based on solidarity and equality! Let citizens contribute to the new 2020 strategy by maintaining the consultation! This will show that lessons have been learnt after 20 years and that the future is in an integrated European project.

SOCIAL POLICY

FROM WELFARE TO EMPOWERMENT AND PARTICIPATION

Gökhan is a 32 year old man who was supported by SOLIDAR member Arbeiterwohlfahrt when he experienced psychological difficulties. Based on our members experiences of working with socially and economically disadvantaged people, SOLIDAR puts forward the following recommendations to EU and national decision makers on social services of general interest:

1. Develop and defend adequate legal and policy frameworks at European level and within Member States for accessible, affordable and quality social services.
2. Encourage employment creation and the growth potential of the social, health and education services sector.
3. Implement the Commission Recommendation on Active Inclusion and include additional principles under the "access to services" strand including non-discrimination concerning access and use, rights and empowerment of users, good working conditions, proper financing in accordance with local, regional and national circumstances, and continuous and timely delivery.

SOLIDAR SIGNS IMF LETTER ON TAXATION OF FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS

In September, the G20 announced that the IMF would consider the proposal of a Financial Transaction Tax (FTT) in order to raise funds for development and stop harmful speculative transactions. Leaders of the UK, Germany, France, Belgium and Austria have amongst others already voiced their support for taxing financial transactions. SOLIDAR has supported this measure by signed a letter addressed to the IMF calling upon world leaders to ensure that through FTT, the financial sector helps to pay for the government bailouts of their industry.

The FTT is also advocated in the call to action of the Europeans for Financial Reform Campaign< FONT size=2> of which SOLIDAR is a founding member. SOLIDAR is in the process of preparing a briefing on the proposals.

EU TO ARTICULATE RUGGIE FRAMEWORK AT EU LEVEL

Coming just days before the SOLIDAR conference on Corporate Social Responsibility and Decent Work, on Wednesday the European Union announced that it is looking to operationalise the Protect, Respect and Remedy framework developed by John Ruggie, the UN Rapporteur on Business and Human Rights, which seeks to ensure that companies respect and are held responsible for human rights' violations in their supply chains. SOLIDAR welcomes this initiative and looks forward to seeing the Spanish Presidency put down a concrete plan for its implementation. To see the statement...
