

Van: Human Rights Watch <news@hrw.org>
Verzonden: vrijdag 20 september 2013 0:16
Aan: Veerle Solia
Onderwerp: Mapping the Sarin Flight Path in Syria

Having trouble viewing this email? Click here

THE WEEK IN RIGHTS

September 19, 2013

Donate Today

Follow us on:

---

Dispatches: Mapping the Sarin Flight Path in Syria

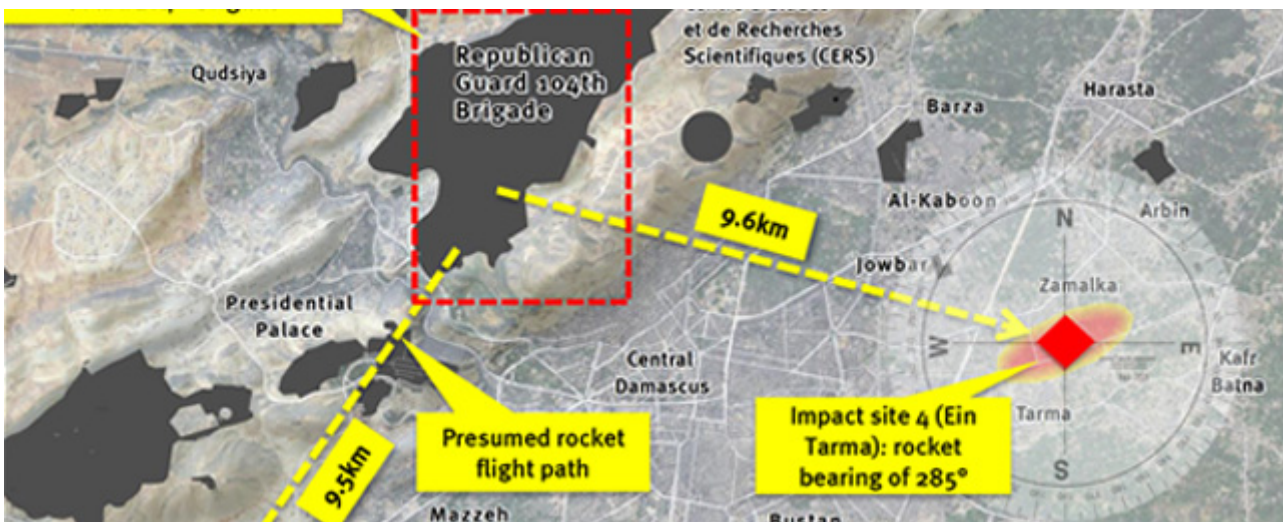

Photo © 2013 Human Rights Watch; Data sources are UN Sellstrom Report, NASA, NGA, OSM, ESRI and Wikimapia.

The UN inspectors investigating the chemical weapons in Syria weren't supposed to point the finger at the party responsible for the killings. Even so, by taking the data from the Sellstrom report, Human Rights Watch was able to work out the rockets' trajectory and their likely launch point.

Read more >>

The UN experts' report on the August 21 chemical weapons attack in Syria has few surprises for those of us who have been investigating that deadly attack. Yes, they confirmed, it was Sarin. But now what needs to happen?

Read more >>

The UN Security Council should refer Syria to the International Criminal Court, a major step toward achieving justice not only for victims of the Sarin attack, but for the tens of thousands of civilians killed by all sides since the conflict began.

Read more >>

share on:

The Forgotten Crisis in the Central African Republic

by Lewis Mudge
The Independent

With the world's attention focused on Syria, another human rights catastrophe unfolds unnoticed, in a forgotten corner of the world called the Central African Republic. A ruthless rebel coalition called the Seleka has engaged in the arbitrary and rampant murder of civilians, including women, children, and the elderly. Countless people there, particularly in rural areas, have fled their homes and are camped out in the bush, living in constant fear of attack by Seleka fighters.

Read More >>

share on:

In Colombia, Victims Face Reprisals for Reclaiming Land

Colombia's president Juan Manuel Santos is making a serious and unprecedented effort to return land, but violence and intimidation against displaced families attempting to return home threaten to sabotage his banner human rights initiative. Unless Colombia starts to ensure justice for abuses against land claimants, they will continue to be killed and threatened for seeking to reclaim what's theirs.

Read More >>

share on:

In Yemen, Journalists Under Attack

A surge of attacks on journalists since a new president took office in Yemen may overwhelm the recent progress toward freedom of expression.

Read More >>

share on:

PHOTOS

Stirring black-and-white photos illustrating the threats and attacks against Colombia's displaced. View Now, click here, scroll down >>

VIDEO

Erlinda Cordero's brother, a prominent leader of displaced people in Colombia hoping to reclaim their land, was shot dead. Her Story >>

SATELLITE IMAGES

Satellite images show the destruction of entire villages in the Central African Republic. More than 1,000 homes have been destroyed. View Now >>

Thank you for supporting Human Rights Watch.

Donate Today

Follow us on:

Home | Take Action | Donate | Privacy

Human Rights Watch - 350 Fifth Avenue, 34th Floor New York, NY 10118 USA
Tel: 1-(212) 290-4700 | news@hrw.org

Remove yourself from this mailing.