Onderwerp: China cannot forget

Dear Friend,

We don't know where Gao Yu is. Her family doesn't know either.

In April 2014, Gao Yu – a fierce government critic, journalist, and active participant in the 1989 pro-democracy protests in Tiananmen Square – was detained by Chinese officials. She is but one more victim of her government's systematic silencing of rights advocates ahead of the 25th anniversary of the massacre in Tiananmen Square.

Human Rights Watch won't forget about Gao Yu. And by relying on your monthly gift, we can make sure that China – and the rest of the world – doesn't either. Become a Human Rights Watch Protector today.

China will stop at nothing to keep the world from remembering what happened 25 years ago in Beijing.

But we remember: we remember the armored tanks rolling in, the bodies of students shot for standing up and protesting peacefully, the brutal legacy of China's ruthless repression.

We refuse to forget, and with your monthly gift, we won't let others turn away.

Human Rights Watch was in China in 1989, and we haven't stopped investigating abuses, exposing the truth, and laying the groundwork for deep-seated change ever since. We helped pressure the Chinese government to end its abusive "re-education through labor" system, and we continue to defend and promote the work of local rights activists, like Gao Yu, every day.

Today, we do what those in China cannot: publicly commemorate the brave men and women who died in Tiananmen 25 years ago, fighting for the rights they deserve.

Become a Protector right now, and help us continue their struggle for the future of human rights in China, and around the world.

Thank you,
