Dear Friend,

Today, I am asking you to join us.

In an age where half-truths and partial information are accessible in an instant, it is more vital than ever that Human Rights Watch continues to provide a dependable voice that cuts through the noise. What you read on the Internet and social media cannot always be trusted—but our work can.

I am asking you to join the fight for human rights around the globe; to become a member of an organization on the front lines of justice.

Become a member of Human Rights Watch today.

This spring, the mass abduction of Nigerian schoolgirls by Boko Haram militants sparked outrage across the globe.

It's so important you join us today, because only with the support of our members can Human Rights Watch be ready to respond to crises with accurate and thorough investigations that policy makers depend on. Our researchers have been documenting abuses in Nigeria for years—providing the world a complete picture of abuses by both Boko Haram and the Nigerian government.

The support of our members gives us the opportunity to tell the world the full story.

Because of you, we are trusted by politicians, journalists, and policy makers around the world. Our research and continued advocacy shines light on human rights atrocities and gives victims a powerful voice.

We count on you to make our work possible.

Join us today.

Thank you,

Kenneth Roth
Executive Director
