Dear Supporter,

I often wonder how our researchers—time and again—are able to expose hidden truths when no one else can. When I think about it, I realize, it is because you stand behind them. You make it possible for Human Rights Watch researchers to take the time to listen to victims' voices that no one else hears, and bear witness where no one else is willing or able to look.

Our researchers cannot continue this work without you.

Will you make a tax-deductible gift to Human Rights Watch today?

Tanya Lokshina, our Russia director, received text messages with death threats that could only have come from government officials. But like so many of the people who make up Human Rights Watch, Tanya refused to stop listening to victims, supporting activists, bearing witness, and exposing the truth.

When other rights defenders were forced to flee Moscow, she knew she wouldn't have to. She knew you were there standing behind her, just as you are today.

Time is running out to make your tax-deductible gift. Tanya stood strong—your gift shows that you too are willing to stand with her.

Stand behind our researchers who are a light in the darkness for so many.

Help Human Rights Watch continue to be there, when no one else can.

Thank you,
